Editor: Martha Porter Miller

Published quarterly by Martha Porter Miller

Business address: Box 4894, Washington, D.C., 20008

Subscription rates: $5.00 per year; single issue $1.50

Volumes prior to current year: $6.00

All subscriptions start with the first issue of the year

Second class postage paid at Washington, D. C.

The Editor finds it necessary to request subscribers to cooperate by renewing their subscriptions to The Kentucky Genealogist for the year 1976 before January 1, 1976. In the October-December issue a renewal notice will be placed and it is hoped that those expecting to renew will do so before December 31, 1975. If renewals are received after that date subscribers will have to wait for the receipt of their magazines until a sufficient number of subscriptions are on hand to fill at least one mail bag. This decision has been made because of the increased cost of postage. A reminder of this change in policy will be carried in the October-December quarterly.

Two distant genealogical publications have recently come to the Editor's desk: The Lifeliner and The Roadrunner.

The Lifeliner, published by the Genealogical Society of Riverside, P.O. Box 2557, Riverside, California, is in its tenth year, an interesting, well-established magazine, and readers of The Kentucky Genealogist may find it helpful in tracing their ancestors from the eastern seaboard to California.

The Roadrunner, the quarterly of the Chaparral Genealogical Society, P.O. Box 606, Tomball, Texas, 77375, appeared for the first time in the fall of 1974. Its editor and staff display experience in genealogical work and excellent judgment in the presentation of source records. The quarterly contains cemetery and church records, index to probate minutes of Waller County, Grimes County index to deeds, marriages in Montgomery County, Brazos County early births, queries and a surname index.

Neither The Kentucky Genealogist nor the Editor assumes responsibility for errors which may appear in the statements of contributors. Manuscripts and copies of private or public records must cite ownership and/or depository of the original documents. Unless accompanied by sufficient postage contributions cannot be acknowledged nor returned.

Non-delivery of any issue of The Kentucky Genealogist must be reported within one month after the end of the quarter for which the magazine is dated, if a second copy is to be supplied without charge. Complaint concerning this quarterly should be made on or before October 31, 1975.

IN 1873-1884

Old newspapers are valuable sources of genealogical and historical data. Unfortunately, they are scarce or non-existent in many cases. The Banner was published every Thursday at Princeton, Kentucky for about 30 years, but only scattered, miscellaneous copies can be found in libraries and private collections. The following deaths were compiled from a privately owned collection. The first date given is the date of the newspaper.

Sept. 4, 1873. Jacob Sigler, 89, died August 31, 1873, at the home of Dan Sigler in Caldwell Co. He was born in Loudon Co., Virginia on Dec. 4, 1783, was a soldier in the War of 1812, and came to Caldwell Co. in 1817.

Feb. 11, 1875. Mrs. Agnes L. McGoodwin, 28, wife of E. P. McGoodwin, died of consumption at her home in Princeton on Feb. 5, 1875.

Sept. 12, 1878. Mrs. Minerva Pickering, 65, died at her home in Caldwell Co. on Sept. 4, 1878, after a long illness. She was a native of Caldwell Co. and the wife of Thomas W. Pickering.

Jan. 2, 1879. Miss Polly Asher, a sister of Squire Jeff Asher, died on Dec. 27; she was an invalid all her life.

June 5, 1879. James Pemberton Scott, 9 month old son of Joseph and Amanda Scott, died at the family home near Scottsburg on June 2, 1879.

Sept. 4, 1879. John P. Gracey, depot agent at Princeton since 1872, shot and killed himself Sunday, leaving a wife and son.

Sept. 4, 1879. Mrs. John B. Downing died last Friday.

Sept. 4, 1879. James H. Hayes died at his home near Friendship of consumption on the 22nd of August 1879. He was born June 15, 1828 and lived in Christian Co. before settling in Caldwell Co. in 1857. He married Miss Elizabeth Mitchell in 1855.

Sept. 4, 1879. Frank McConnell, 10 year old son of Rufus McConnell of Donaldson, was shot and killed by David Cantrell, age 16, an orphan.

June 28, 1883. Thomas Saunders, an old and respected citizen of this county, died the 15th inst.

June 28, 1883. Mrs. Thomas Hunter, an invalid for several years, died on Monday evening last.

June 28, 1883. Eb. Morse died at his residence near Farmersville in this county on last Friday, the 22d in the 70th year of his age. He came to this county 64 years ago from South Carolina with his father's family.

Sept. 6, 1883. James Blanton Sasseen died Sunday night at his home in Princeton. He was born Mar. 15, 1807, in Garrard Co., Ky., came to Caldwell Co. in 1812 with his father Lewis Sasseen, married Miss Elizabeth Bright on Sept. 13, 1832, who survived him. He was in the tombstone business at Princeton.

Sept. 13, 1883. John A. Satterfield died of typhoid fever last Monday at his home in Caldwell Co.

Jan. 17, 1884. Dr. Timothy Brown Pool died in Princeton on Dec. 17, 1883, in the 82d year of his life. He was born in Rowan Co., North Carolina and moved to Christian Co., Ky. with his father Henry Pool in 1806. Dr. Pool married Miss Mary Brown and had a family of 4 boys and 4 girls. They moved to Caldwell Co. in 1853.

Old Graveyards of Clark County, Kentucky. Compiled and Edited by Kathryn Owen. New Orleans. 1975. 166 pp. Illustrated. Indexed. $10.00.

Fifteen years of diligent research by Kathryn Owen has resulted in an excellent genealogical record for Clark County's pioneers and their descendants. Kentucky maintained a central registration of births and deaths only from 1852 to 1862 and from 1911 to the present, so that during many years of the State's history tombstone inscriptions were the only public source of vital statistics.

Approximately 275 early cemeteries were visited in gathering these inscriptions. The names of settlers and their families from the eighteenth century to recent years, Revolutionary soldiers and other prominent figures of the country's history are listed - 2,500 of them.

Old Graveyards of Clark County, Kentucky is the contribution of Miss Owen to the State's bi-centennial celebration. But it will long be an important addition to the reference literature of early Kentucky. Information is given as to dates of birth and death, relationships, the war service of the deceased and notes concerning graveyards and tombstone inscriptions are added.

In her Preface Miss Owen calls attention to the fact that the Kentucky Legislature has enacted laws to prohibit the destruction of cemeteries large and small. She also expresses appreciation of the generous cooperation of many persons interested in the completion of her book.

History of Woodford County, Kentucky. By William E. Railey. (1938) Reprinted Baltimore 1975. 449 pp. Illustrated. Indexed. $17.50.

Genealogists will welcome this reprint of William E. Railey's History of Woodford County, Kentucky, originally published in 1938, as it contains hundreds upon hundreds of family sketches, marriage records of Woodford County 1789-1799, soldiers from Woodford County in the War of 1812 and the census of 1810. In these few lists more than 5,000 early Woodford County residents are named. In the family sketches data on the Kentucky immigrant, such as the state or country of his origin, names of his wife and children, are contained.

The account of the settlement, governments and wars in which Woodford's citizens participated is interesting. The fact is emphasized that while the great portion of the settlers migrated from Virginia, many came from Maryland, North Carolina and Pennsylvania, and small groups from other states. The book is recommended to all readers but especially to genealogists because it is a storehouse of vital statistics.

The reviewer cannot resist quoting one item found in the Supplement of the Woodford County history (page 421): "Circuit Judge William B. Ardery, Paris, whose district includes Woodford County, has his troubles. He admitted that while addressing the Woodford County grand jury this week [1937] at Versailles: 'It is a difficult matter to charge a grand jury in a county like Woodford,' he declared, 'where there is almost no crime to talk about. The county jail is empty and only two cases were referred to the grand jury, by the lower courts.'". ....

Oldham County Records, Volume 1: Cemeteries. Co-Editors Edna Scott McKechnie and Willada Hickman Dent. With photographs by Martha Lee Klein and Theodore E. Klein. n.p. 1974. $15.00.

The Oldham County Historical Society is to be congratulated on its project to publish important genealogical data for the benefit of all those whose ancestors were among the early settlers of that area. Oldham County Records, Volume 1: Cemeteries is the first of a series of planned publications. Future volumes will contain abstracts of Will Books, 1, 2, 3 and 4, the Census records of 1830, 1840 and 1850, and abstracts of Court Order Book 1.

In 1962 some 73 adults and children copied nearly three thousand tombstone inscriptions found in cemeteries in Oldham County. In 1973 approximately three thousand five hundred more inscriptions were copied. At this time many excellent photographs were made of the stones. All known family, church and public cemeteries were recorded before completion of the work. Mrs. McKechnie and Mrs. Dent then compiled and edited the mass of material with meticulous care so that few errors, if any, will be found. Their work entailed the notation of births and deaths, relationships of those buried, whether a doctor, minister, or member of the Masonic Lodge.

The cemeteries are numbered for easy reference in using the index which was prepared by Mrs. McKechnie. The locations of the cemeteries are indicated by numbers on a road map printed by the State Highway Department.

A fascinating section of tombstone photographs by Mr. and Mrs. Klein follows the sketches of two family graveyards.

This is a limited edition of a volume of important genealogical data. Persons interested should mail their orders early to Mrs. John H. Caldwell, Treasurer, The Oldham County Historical Society, Smithfield, Kentucky, 40068.

History of Fentress County, Tennessee. By Albert R. Hogue. (1916, 1920). Reprint. Baltimore. 1975. xxxii, 165 pp. Illustrated. Indexed. $10.00.

In 1916 Albert R. Hogue stated that the purpose of his history of Fentress County was to relate the part their county had played in State and national affairs, and to inspire a higher order of citizenship by citing their past endeavors in historic events. In 1920 the World War Memorial Edition was published, containing thirty additional pages of data proving that the citizens of Fentress County continued to respond to the call of the nation and meet its needs for the services of men and women and for money. Short sketches of those serving in World War I, including Alvin Cullom York, appear.

In the original history the county's location, scenery, invigorating air and health-giving waters are described. Jamestown, the county seat, is situated on the Cumberland Plateau. It was at one time called Sand Springs, possibly because of the several fine springs of water that bubble up from the sand. Later it became Obedstown of the "Gilded Age" by Mark Twain. Fentress County is the old home of Mark Twain's ancestors. His father, John M. Clemmons moved from Jamestown a few months before Mark Twain was born.

While some general history is related, the book is chiefly a collection of personal and family sketches. References to marriage, occupation, place of residence of some three hundred and fifty persons will aid the genealogical researcher. An index provides the names contained in the sketches.

Copies may be ordered from the Genealogical Publishing Company, 521-523 St. Paul Place, Baltimore, Maryland, 21202.

Tennessee Soldiers in the Revolution. By Penelope Johnson Allen. (1935) Reprinted Baltimore, 1975.
 71 pp. $5.00.

The reprint of this book is especially welcome at this time when so much interest is being shown in the Revolutionary period. The title implies that it is only a roster of the soldiers of the Revolution. Although there is a significant list of such soldiers taken from the Revolutionary Army Accounts of North Carolina for service by men from the western-most counties of Washington and Sullivan, later Tennessee, there are also sections devoted to wills of Washington County, marriages of Blount and Davidson counties, and Revolutionary grants in Davidson County.

More than 1500 soldiers residing in Washington and Sullivan counties, 1781-1783, are named. The wills are chiefly of the period 1780-1820, the marriages of the period 1790-1802. All pertinent names and dates are given in the several groups, totaling in excess of 2,000 persons.

Copies may be purchased from the Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 521-523 St. Paul Place, Baltimore, Md., 21202.

Twenty-four Hundred Tennessee Pensioners: Revolution [and] War of 1812. By Zella Armstrong. (1937)
 Reprinted Baltimore, 1975. 121 pp. $6.50.

After the Revolutionary War thousands of veterans moved into Tennessee when it was erected as a state and hundreds of them were granted pensions. In this list eleven of the original thirteen states are represented. The pensioners of the War of 1812, however, are almost without exception Tennesseans.

In her Foreword Miss Armstrong explains that information for the roll of Tennessee Pensioners was compiled and collated from the published Government lists commonly called the list of 1816, the list of 1818, the list of 1828, the list of 1832, the Census of 1840, and also the list of heirs of non-commissioned officers killed in service, the manuscript record of the Knoxville Agency, Blount County records. Zella Armstrong rendered an excellent genealogical service in publishing all these data in one book.
