CARROLL

These random notes were gathered in the course of research and reading for a planned volume concerning The Battles and Massacre on River Raisin, January 18-23, 1813. The absence of even partial rosters of troops who served at Raisin prompted a search for participants in the two battles and at the massacre.

Sources generally were newspaper files owned by the Society, county pension lists, county histories and contributed cemetery and other local records. Newspaper accounts of the annual reunions held by the veterans at Paris, Kentucky, were read for names of veterans attending. These reunions were inaugurated in 1866 and held annually until 1883 or 1884. At the 1883 meeting, the 8 old soldiers attending voted one more reunion, to be held June 18, 1884. No account of this reunion was found and it is possible that the last was held in 1883. Oddly, at the 1877 reunion 39 of the veterans attended and 39 deaths were reported; at the 1878 meeting, 25 met and 25 were reported dead; the 1880 reunion saw 15 answer roll call, and the historian announced 15 dead; 12 met for the 1881 meeting, and again 12 were reported dead since the last gathering.

No concerted attempt was made to authenticate the soldier's organizational unit and time of service. A listing from the Adjutant General's report of Kentuckians in the War of 1812 was given, however, when it was apparent that reasonable accuracy could be maintained.

NORRIS, CAPTAIN JOHN. Petersburg, Boone County, Kentucky. "He was a soldier of the war of 1812, and participant in Commodore Perry's victory, Sept. 10, 1813. He was a native of Maryland, born 13 April 1791. He removed to Mason County, Ky., with his parents when eight years old. At the age of 20 (in 1813) he enlisted from Mason County in Captain Payne's Co., and was assigned to Colonel Johnson's regiment. He was one of 20 who volunteered to take part in the celebrated naval battle on Lake Erie, Sept. 10, 1813, and was ordered to duty on the ship Caledonia. He was selected for superior marksmanship and bravery to take post in the maintop of his ship as sharpshooter; but before being ordered to his post, that enviable place was shot away, and fell to the decks. He assisted in the management of the guns, and actually fired the last shot, which caused the enemy, His Majesty's ship Hunter, to strike her flag. Young Norris was one of 20 men selected as a picked crew to take charge of the captured vessel. They found her in a sinking condition, but by hard work at the pumps, brought her to port, and later received $300. as prize money. The engagement lasted three and one-half hours, and the Hunter was literally riddled. This battle decided the contest with Great Britain on the Lakes, and Mr. Norris returned home and married. Six children were born to him, three of whom were living at the time of his death. Several years ago there was an effort made to gather together all the survivors of Perry's victory, at Put-in-Bay, and only four could be found. Since that time all have died, Mr. Norris being the last to pass away. The Legislature of Kentucky, on 17 Feb. 1860, directed the Governor to procure four gold medals—one each for James Artus, Dr. William T. Talliaferro, John Tucker, and John Norris, “as survivors of the Kentucky volunteers, who, with such ready alacrity and heroism” assisted Perry in achieving his glorious victory.” He died in January (?), 1879 in his 88th year. Yeoman, 11 Jan. 1879.
